To Whom it May Concern,

RAW TV contracted Jason Gaffney to provide safety and risk management oversight for a series of episodes for the Gold Rush season 4 television show in 2013.

Jason and his team provided excellent service in every regard. Jason assessed a variety of terrain including cable crossings and an alpine cliff for a rappelling sequence. Our miners and film crew were kept perfectly safe and enabled to capture exciting footage.

In addition to safety and risk management he provided valuable input into the production that increased the quality of the programs.

I would happily work with Jason again and would highly recommend his services.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions.

Regards,
